In central Istria, a family house that was partially built in stone in the 1920s, renovated in the 1970s.

Located on a large plot, the exterior is divided into two separate zones. Most of the property includes a charming courtyard of 898m2. Across the road is an additional 697m2 of building land which offers endless possibilities for extension or development.

The location of this house is truly idyllic, with an incredible view of Motovun and the surrounding vineyards.
