The Rock of Ifach is a calcareous mass measuring 332 metres in height, rich in vegetation and birds and declared nature reserve in 1987. The fish auction dates back to very distant times. Currently, the auction is one of the most attractive and visited events in Calpe. The auction, organised by the Fishermen's Guild, consists of the wholesale of fresh fish captured by the fishermen of Calpe. The Guild was founded in 1924 and it currently manages a total of 22 fishing boats manned by approximately 160 fishermen. From the coves of 'El Collao' on the far west, we come across the beaches of 'Arenal-Bol', 'Cantal Roig' and 'Levante', two sailing clubs, and a very busy fishing port, with a succession of restaurants serving fish and seafood. Climbing the Rock of Ifach, sailing along the bay, visiting the Real Club Náutico de Calpe (Calpe's Royal Sailing Club), strolling through the 'Paseo Ecológico Príncipe de Asturias' (the Prince of Asturias' Ecological Promenade), savouring the delights of the Calpe Bay, enjoying a dip in the 'Baños de la Reina' (the Queen's Baths), practicing scuba diving in the coves, swimming in its fine sandy beaches, visiting Las Salinas (the salt flats) or the old town centre, practicing sports in the fully-equipped installations and enjoying the variety and richness of its fiestas, are just some of the activities on offer in Calpe.
