Levent district, in the center of which the object is located, is one of the most prestigious and fashionable quarters of the city. It is also considered the main financial and business center of the city of Istanbul. Here you will find such elite malls as Istinye Park and Zorlu, the headquarters of the largest financial organizations, extensive business centers, various clinics, luxurious vacation spots, expensive educational institutions - in a word, everything in order to live a luxurious and glamorous life. The residential facility was erected as part of the idea "To live like in open nature, while being in an advanced metropolis." When developing the site plan, the developers tried to combine the best that the metropolis has to offer in terms of comfort, and the best that a "green" approach to development can offer. The project stretches over an area of 103,000 m2 and includes 16 residential buildings, which in total gives more than 1,000 apartments of various types, ranging from one-room to five-room options. Individual dwellings are equipped with terraces. In addition, there are also 40 apartments for commercial purposes. Throughout the complex there are gardens with various fruit trees so that people from residential buildings can pick fruits and enjoy them on the grounds.
